Music and Math Teacher

Mr. Joseph Donato

Two Popular Gentlemen

Share Dedication Honors

Mr. Charles Kepner

During the last four years the present senior class has benefited from the knowledge, experience and abilities of a concerned faculty. We wish to show our appreciation and esteem to two outstanding teachers by dedicating to them Nova 1966.

Mr. Donato accomplishes the impossible each year as the successes of the Christmas and Spring Concerts show. His wit and skill have challenged us to the full use of our musical abilities, and his own enthusiastic instruction has extended our musical experience and appreciation. Friendly and dynamic, he has won acclaim for his fine conducting and organizing of the A.H.S. bands and choruses.

Mr. Kepner teaches every hour of the day. He may often be seen exchanging knowledge with fellow teachers or students in the "hall of science" — that little room between biology and chemistry. The lucid presentation of ideas in his classes has given us a definite advantage in mathematics and physics. His interest in each student's understanding and progress combined with his extensive comprehension of his field has made Mr. Kepner a teacher of rare excellence.

Academics

Our education takes form with the continual expansion of our knowledge, acquired through the dedicated teaching of our faculty and the guidance of our administration.

IN MEMORIAM

HOWARD C. 'JIM' SMITH
CHAIRMAN, AVON BOARD OF EDUCATION FROM
FEBRUARY, 1958 — FEBRUARY, 1966

Mr. Howard C. 'Jim' Smith considered the promotion of equal educational opportunity for all children to be the responsibility of every citizen. His firm belief in this concept was demonstrated by his unselfish dedication and devotion to enhancing the educational development of all children.

In his judgment, every aspect of the school program was of equal importance whether it be a varsity sport, music activity or an academic subject.

He truly loved children and his most fervent wish for them was that, whatever the endeavor, they would pursue it with excellence as their goal.

Our Board of Education Assumes Great Responsibilities

Mr. R. Summers
Vice-Principal

Administration

The Class of 1966 is well aware of the long hours which the members of the Board of Education spend on behalf of Avon's students. Each year the Board faces many vital tasks involved in formulating school policies and providing necessary equipment and facilities to keep the school running smoothly.

Mr. Francis Driscoll, our Superintendent has been associated with the school since its beginning. He has striven to make Avon High second to none by keeping abreast of changing needs in curriculum, teaching staff, and school plant.

To Mr. Driscoll and our School Board we wish to express our deep gratitude.

Principals' Concern Benefits Student Body

Principals

Kindness and concern for the welfare of each student are evident in the daily activities of Mr. Cotton, our principal. In supervising school activities he blends authority with understanding. He encourages us to express our opinions while steering a steady course away from extremes. At all times Mr. Cotton is aware of the need for us to strive for high academic achievement.

Even while enforcing the rules of the school, Mr. Summers manages to maintain a friendly attitude which instills confidence in the student body. He is interested in our problems and is ever ready to help us.

Guidance Is Appreciated

Guidance

Mr. Fish joined the team of Fenster and Lavitt in the guidance department this year and is a fine addition to a truly worthwhile organization. These three guidance directors work hard to "get the facts" to us. In our need to make the correct choice of college or job, they are most helpful. Listening to our woes and offering friendly advice occupies much of their time. They also administer and interpret tests, and act as hosts to representatives who visit the school to interest us in their colleges or organizations.

School Staff

There have been two new additions to the school staff this year. Mrs. Nan Dietrich, school nurse, whose charm and efficiency has won schoolwide acclaim; and Mrs. Virginia Barnett, secretary, whose helpful and friendly manner has appealed to teachers and students alike.

Of course, the school wouldn't be the same without Mrs. Edith Merkle, who has kept the office running smoothly since 1960, and Mrs. Harriet Fernquist, our very capable dietician.

Mr. Raymond Van Nostrand, maintenance supervisor, has been a familiar figure since the school began in 1958.

Mrs. Edith Merkle and Mrs. Virginia Barnett answer one of many requests.

English

English is the foundation of our education, for language is the major means of communication. The greater our capacity to use and understand the language, the greater is our ability to share our ideas with others.

Much wisdom and enjoyment comes through reading the works by the great minds of the past and present. Through literature, (encompassing drama, poetry, novels, short-stories, and essays), we experience events outside our own lives, relive history, find expression for our emotions, and understand more fully the complex world in which we live.

Under the direction of the English faculty we have learned the fundamentals of our own language, expanded our vocabularies, improved our speech and writing, and entered upon a lifetime of enjoyment in the appreciation of literature.

Miss Motte congratulates cheerleaders.

Mathematics

The philosophy of the mathematics department is to provide each student with a sound mathematical background and to bring each student to the highest degree of knowledge and competence which he is able and willing to master.

The proper understanding of mathematical concepts and mastering of basic principles are a bridge to many related fields.

Practical Experience Is Gained Through Business Course

Mr. Jeffrey Martin

Mr. Martin shows Milena Rotonda a detail in Shorthand.

Miss Susan Barr

Business

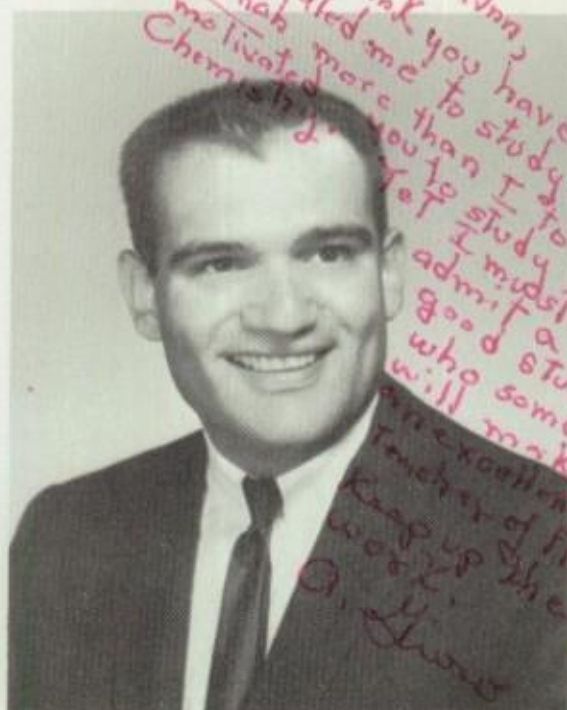

In the business course students become well acquainted with the basics of bookkeeping, typing, and stenography, which will prepare them for the challenge of the business world.

Busy offices today require speed, precision and neatness. Training in these areas is given by well-qualified teachers.

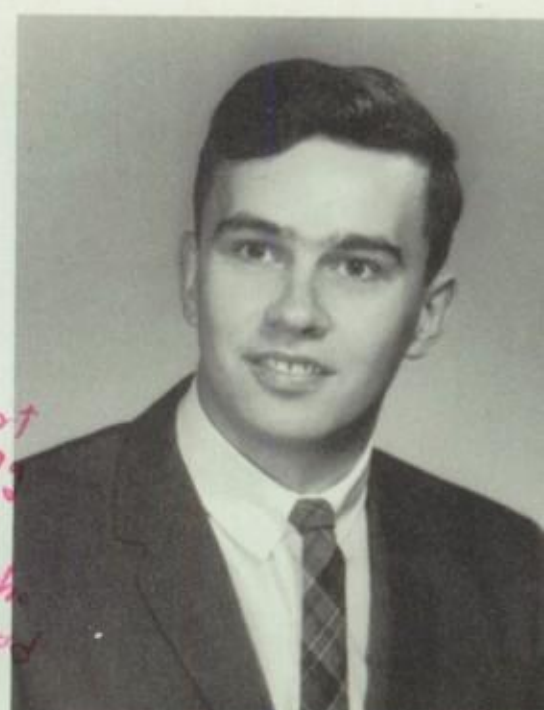

An "on the job" program gives to senior business students during the second semester, much practical experience.

Science

The study of science in all its aspects helps us to understand more fully the changing world and prepares us for our roles in the world of the future.

By means of lab, lecture, and class discussions, our science teachers acquaint us with the importance of scientific achievements in our daily lives. The scientific method, instilled in us since our seventh grade classes, carries over into many other academic subjects. In the broad range from general science to physics, our courses are suited to the abilities and interests of all students.

Mr. John Herman

Mr. Richard Dunlap

Social Studies

Courses ranging from the study of ancient civilization to the modern problems of our nation comprise the Social Studies curriculum at A.H.S. By studying the evolution of history and its varied patterns, we comprehend the past. We hope to apply this knowledge and understanding as we take our places in adult society.

Our teachers have established new advanced placement courses and broadened our horizons by making lectures, interviews, and extensive reading materials available to us. Opening these doors and teaching the social sciences objectively, they have enabled us to understand better today's complex and culturally diverse world.

Students focus attention on map in Mr. Zanini's U. S. History class.

Industrial Arts and Drafting Are Practical

Mr. Wayne Pierson

Industrial Arts

Industrial Arts prepares students for practical careers. This department includes courses in woodworking, plastics, and metalworking. Precision is most essential in this highly technical field, and students get excellent training in accuracy and detail. Creativity is encouraged and developed by the experienced and conscientious instructor.

Mr. Pierson oversees the job.

Physical Ed. Program Is Beneficial to All

Miss Joyce Fellows

Mr. Thomas Kopp

Physical Education

Helping students to keep physically fit is one of the basic aims of Physical Education. At the same time, students experience the thrill of competition in the intramural sports which are arranged and supervised by this department. The rules of good sportsmanship are promoted, and the entire program helps to develop the qualities of leadership and responsibility.

"Get Rid of It" — Coach Kopp.

Mr. James Fulton

Drafting

Drafting is a universal language in which form, size finish, and construction of an object can be described accurately and clearly. Development of manual skills, neatness, and precision are all part of this highly practical subject. Advanced courses include architectural drafting, sketching, and shop project drawing.

Ann - To a real sweet kid. Thanks for all the help in Chem and everything else. Always remember Tony (Gioco) and all the helpful hints he gave us on doing it. I'm sure that we all have the technique now! Good luck always, although I know you'll do well if you had no luck at all! Keep up the good work!
See ya,
Amy
